CULPEPPER WILL TALK AGAIN ABOUT "WOMEN"

Evangelist Says His Attitude as to Gentler Sex Is Misunderstood

The Rev. Burke Culpepper at St. Luke's Methodist Episcopal church tonight will again speak on the subject of women for the purpose of correcting what he says is a mistaken impression of his attitude toward the gentler sex. Dr. Culpepper admits he has somewhat different views on the woman subject than many other clergymen, but some of his addresses have been handled in such a way as to convey an erroneous meaning.

The evangelist promises all who attend the revival tonight an interesting session. There will be special music by the large choir.

A few minutes later the car was moved out of the yards. She lost sight of it before she could notify the yard officers.

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Adv.

MRS. WILLIE CLARK, chairman of the flower show committee, State Civic Improvement association, has issued the following expression of gratitude to the members of the show committee and contributors to the show.

It was through you that the show was such an unqualified success. I thank you."

Fry bacon crisp, peel and quarter, salt apples leaving on at least 1/2 the peeling. Drop them into the hot fat and cover closely till they begin to soften, carefully turning them once with pancake turner, then sprinkle sugar over all and leaving cover off to let them brown nicely, serve on hot platter with strips of bacon. Mock mince pie, 2 1/2 cup of vinegar, 1 cup of molasses, 2 1/2 cup of water, 1 cup of sugar, 1 cup of bread crumbs, 1 cup of chopped raisins, 1 teaspoon of cloves, 1 teaspoon of cinnamon, butter size of egg nutmeg, cook a few minutes stirring well; this makes enough for three pies. Creamed cabbage: Cook a quart of cabbage in salted water until tender, drain and add 1 tablespoonful of butter, 1 egg, 1/2 cup of cream, 1/2 cup of vinegar, pepper and let remain over hot fire just a moment then serve.

All vegetables cooked in salted water have better flavor; try sweet potatoes just washing without breaking, until boiled in salt water then carefully remove the peelings, cut lengthwise, dip in melted butter, sprinkle with sugar and bake; serve immediately.

Whole cooked wheat. Use any amount of wheat desired and boil until the grains burst open; salt to taste.

Fried bread: Take stale bread and cut in slices as for the table, break two eggs on a dinner plate and add an even teaspoon salt and beat well together; dip bread first in cold water then egg; put into the skillet a tablespoon of butter and one of lard; when hot put in the bread and fry a light brown. Bread may be fried without eggs by dipping the slices in salted milk and frying in butter on a hot griddle; if bread is quite dry it should be soaked a short time in the milk.

British and French Charge Into Combles Seeking Last Defenders and Run Only Into Each Other

BY FREDERICK PALMER.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, Sept. 26—(Via London, Sept. 27.)

The capture of Combles was one of the most picturesque incidents in the whole course of the great Somme offensive. It marked the opening of today's forward surge of the British and French forces which reached its climax in the capture of Guedecourt and Thiepval.

Fell as Sun Rose.
All night long bitter fighting had been in progress at various points on the front and with dawn the battle broadened to include the whole British left. Combles fell as the sun rose on a perfect day. Sitting in a heap of hills the town was isolated yesterday by the seizing of the high ground on either side by the French and British. In the early hours of the morning the British took an orchard in the northern outskirts and then after a heavy preliminary shelling they charged the trenches on the edge of the village. The trenches were empty when they reached them.

Allies Met in Street.
At the same time the French dashing forward on the other side of the village pushed victoriously forward into the heart of the village. In the main street the soldiers of the two nations met and joyously shook hands, calling out to each other: "parlez vous" and "how d'ye do?"

Combles had a labyrinth of dugouts and well fortified cellars, but at the last practically no defense was made.

Cellars Full of Wounded.
Those Germans who had not managed to escape when the town was hopelessly surrounded were taken prisoners. One group of Germans endeavoring to find a way through the encircled allied infantry, walked into the British skirmishing line. The cellars and dugouts of the village were full of wounded who found security there from the furious fighting on the slopes and ridges.

Counter Attacks Spiritless.
One of the most striking features of the fighting last night and today was the surprisingly slight resistance at Morval and Combles by the Germans, according to all reports made by the British officers. The Germans made the usual counter attack against the British new positions last night, but the reports of the allied officers to headquarters agree that they lacked spirit.

Throw Down Their Guns.
Some German trenches taken yesterday were lightly occupied or not at all. In other instances the allied commanders stated that considerable bodies of

These Suits Are Autumn's Finest

A buyer has just returned from the markets, and during the past week we have been receiving shipment after shipment of new Suits—Suits showing the late and final development of the styles. Whether you intend to pay $25 or $95 is really not a matter of importance. It is essentially a detail. The important thing is that whatever the price, you can be suited here best. If you consider that statement as a piece of presumptuousness on our part, we cordially invite you to test it by examining the Suits here at Kerr's. Every quality which so successfully evades words but which is readily recognized by the eye—call it distinctiveness, "chic" or what you will—developed in the highest degree. Furthermore, there is exclusivity, even at $25.

As we have said, fetching new modes are coming in, hand-in-hand with autumn; subtle changes in the silhouette; a new sweep and grace of line; the fashionable broad collars, worn open or snug "up" under the chin; the smartest uses that buttons, pockets and fur were ever put to—and such clever effects from the new half-belts. You are going to fall in love with these engaging new styles the moment you see them.

Gabardines, velvets, Bedford cords, wool velours, serges, novelty pile fabrics—such a wealth of rich materials and wanted colors and shades.

The capture of Combles was one of the most picturesque incidents in the whole course of the great Somme offensive. It marked the opening of today's forward surge of the British and French forces which reached its climax in the capture of Guedecourt and Thiepval.

Combles had a labyrinth of dugouts and well fortified cellars, but at the last practically no defense was made.

Cellars Full of Wounded.
Those Germans who had not managed to escape when the town was hopelessly surrounded were taken prisoners. One group of Germans endeavoring to find a way through the encircled allied infantry, walked into the British skirmishing line. The cellars and dugouts of the village were full of wounded who found security there from the furious fighting on the slopes and ridges.

Counter Attacks Spiritless.
One of the most striking features of the fighting last night and today was the surprisingly slight resistance at Morval and Combles by the Germans, according to all reports made by the British officers. The Germans made the usual counter attack against the British new positions last night, but the reports of the allied officers to headquarters agree that they lacked spirit.

Throw Down Their Guns.
Some German trenches taken yesterday were lightly occupied or not at all. In other instances the allied commanders stated that considerable bodies of and the Germans in their dugouts and galleries have fought with the skill and stubbornness which characterizes them in this kind of warfare.

Stuck Like Glue.
"They stuck like glue to their dugouts," said one British soldier, "because they knew that once they are pushed back we do not give them time to dig any more."

A blackish heap of dirt on the crest of a ridge is all that remains of Thiepval. On the top of that heap still rise a few black sticks, tree trunks silvered and bent by shell fire which have escaped being blown down by a direct hit.

On July 1, the first day of the great offensive, the British tried to take Thiepval and failed. On this height to the north the whole Anglo-French movement pivots to the bank of the Somme.

Every Trick of War.
The British in fierce little attacks now and then, have whittled and sapped their way toward that precious high ground, the capture of which extends the German front of defense and endangers other German positions. Hand to hand, bomb to bomb, with every trick of the modern trade of war, Germans and British have fought over these seamed slopes as if the war itself was to be decided here.

In British Possession.
Tonight, after another effort, practically all of the village, the whole defense and siege of which cost more thousands of lives than any in France, is in British possession. This success is a source of greater satisfaction to the average British soldier than the taking of Combles or any other village or strong point in the nearly three months of continuous fighting.

Pound Whole Line.
In the meantime the British continue to pound the whole line with their seemingly inexhaustible supply of shells and about midday the British left had its turn in the region of Thiepval, at the other extreme of the battle front from Combles. Here the fighting line joined the old German front trench line
